The MS Educational Leadership degree program serves educators or other professionals who want to assume formal or informal leadership roles in their organizations. Our purpose is to prepare educators or other education-related professionals to assume leadership roles in their organizations. We focus primarily on the four outer components of our COEHS model (Change Agent, Reflective Professional, Lifelong Learner, and Skillful Practitioner) which are more fully articulated in our six overall program goals:

1. Develop leadership, decision making, legal and ethical skills, and change agent skills;
2. Develop written, oral, and technological communication skills;
3. Understand and appreciate cultural and intellectual diversity;
4. Develop professional practice based on theory and research;
5. Develop skills in integrating and applying knowledge to specific problem-solving tasks; and
6. Develop requisite skills and attitudes to become lifelong learners.

The program is designed with a core that all students will take emphasizing leadership as well as an individually planned emphasis area allowing the candidate to gain expertise in a specific area. The program requires 36 credits of coursework and may be completed concurrently with numerous Certificate Programs and library/media licensure programs. Won't you join us?
